HORRIBLE DEATH OF MILL EMPLOYEE

Marcus M. Kennedy Falls in Open Closet, After Epileptic Attack, and is Suffocated.

CORONER WILL HOLD INQUEST

Death Came Before Unfortunate Man Could Summon Aid—Moved Here From Crothersville.

Marcus M. Kennedy, an employee of the D'Heur & Swain Lumber Company, met a horrible death shortly after he reported for duty this morning. He was assisting in loading a car with lumber and soon after he began work told some of his fellow employees that he was not feeling well. Little attention was given to his remark at that time, but after working a few minutes longer he left the car. He did not return as soon as expected and some of the employees were sent out to find him. After a short search his body was found in an open closet and it is supposed his death was caused by suffocation.

Mr. Kennedy was afflicted occasionally with epileptic trouble and it is believed that he suffered a violent attack after he left the car and became unconscious before he could call for assistance. He was dead when found and probably did not regain consciousness after he fell. Small bruises on his chest and chin showed that he had struck some object in falling.

As soon as the awful discovery was reported the employees of the mill rushed to the place where the body was found and in a few minutes their first fear that Mr. Kennedy was dead was confirmed. Although greatly shocked by the accident the employees did everything possible, but all efforts to restore life were in vain.

When it was ascertained that life had passed away Coroner W. C. Dailley was notified and went to the D'Heur & Swain Lumber yards where he made an investigation and summoned several witnesses for the inquest which will be conducted tonight at 7 o'clock at the city building. Voss' ambulance was called and removed the body to the undertaking establishment where it was prepared for burial.

Mr. Kennedy was born January 8, 1856 in South Carolina and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kennedy. He spent his early life in the south and several years ago moved to Crothersville. Four years ago he removed to Seymour and resided on West Brown street. He was employed by the D'Heur & Swain Company shortly after he came here and had worked for that concern since. He was a hard working man and was held in high respect by those who knew him.

The deceased is survived by his widow, three sons, Clarence, of Scottsburg, Emmett and Roscoe, of Seymour, and one daughter, Vera, who also lives at home. He also leaves two brothers, Milton, of Bloomington, and Lawson, of Edinburg, and one sister, Mrs. Margaret Omsted, of Edinburg.

The arrangements for the funeral have not been definitely completed but the services will be held sometime Sunday or Monday.

FARMERS REPORT QUALITY OF NEW WHEAT IS GOOD

Crop May be Lighter Than Usual But Grain is Rated High—Clover is a Failure.

While it is not possible to place a definite value of the wheat crop in this county until after the threshing is completed, the farmers declare that the crop will not be as large as first reported, but the loss will likely be made up by the excellent quality. In some parts of the county the recent hail did considerable damage to the grain and a few of the farmers report a small loss because of the delayed harvest. The crop as a whole, however, will rate as well as the average, it is believed.

G. H. Anderson, of the Anderson Grain & Feed Company, has just returned from a trip overland to Sardinia and on the way examined twenty-seven wheat fields. He says that the quality of all he inspected is excellent, but the crop in some will be a little lighter than usual. He also reported that the clover crop was very light and in some places a failure. Other reports to this effect have been received and it is said that some of the clover sown this spring did not come up at all.

SMALL BOY PAINFULLY HURT WHILE COASTING ON STREET

Albert Brinkman Received Dislocated Shoulder When he Fell From Wagon.

While coasting on West Fourth street Thursday night, Albert, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brinkman, fell from the wagon and received painful injuries. He was playing with several other boys who were coasting on the concrete sidewalk.

Albert was in the wagon and one of his playmates was guiding it, and after it had gained considerable momentum the boy who was guiding lost control of it and the wagon ran off the walk. The boy fell with great force to the hard pavement and dislocated his right shoulder bone and received other injuries. His injuries are quite painful but were given immediate attention and no serious effects will result.

HAYDEN CITIZENS AFTER BETTER ACCOMODATIONS

People of That Town Want More B. & O. Southwestern Trains to Stop There.

Citizens of Hayden have had a petition prepared and sent to the state railroad commission asking that better accommodations on the B. & O. road be given them. The commission will give the matter consideration in a few days and will probably meet a delegation of Hayden citizens at North Vernon to talk over the matter.

The people of that town have been fighting for better train service for many years and they hope for favorable action by the commission. Many trains pass through the town every twenty-four hours but only one train a day stops there.

We still have a few of those good, second hand sewing machines left at the Singer Office, with Steinwedel's Music Store.

RECORD HEAT IS EXPECTED TODAY

Government Thermometer at 2:30 O'clock Shows 102 Degrees The High Mark for Summer.

MERCURY WAS STILL SOARING

Soda Fountains and Ice Cream Parlors Have Rushing Business in Cooling Drinks.

The mercury was gradually climbing towards the top of the government thermometer at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, according to the local weather observer, and it is believed that the highest temperature of the summer will be registered before the sun sets today. The high record of 102 degrees was recorded at that time and the mercury bid fair to reach even a higher mark.

The record for the summer is 102 degrees and this mark was reached today. Several times this summer the highest reading of the day has been noted late in the afternoon and it was believed that the heat would reach 103 degrees, making this the hottest day of the year.

The weather man may think he is playing a good joke with his heat "stunt," but the average citizen, especially those who exceed 175 pounds in weight, would much prefer to have a little cool weather turned on now and then. The temperature at 9 o'clock this morning was much higher than is usually recorded at that hour of the day and this was a warning of a "scorching." The intense rays of the bright sun have been felt throughout the day and little relief was afforded by the clouds.

Men who are employed in the harvest fields declare that the breeze furnished great relief from the burning sun and it would have been almost impossible to have stood the heat had it not been for the wind. Many complaints have been heard from office employees who do not get the benefit of the breeze.

The soda fountains have done a rushing business all day and the ice cream parlors have handled gallons of cream and ices. The demand for ice cream and other cooling refreshments is large during the hot weather and the local manufacturers work overtime to supply the trade.

The farmers say that the hot weather and especially the hot nights are doing wonders for the corn and that one can almost see it grow.

TEST PROPOSED WITH NEW SERUM

Department of Agriculture Will Launch Campaign in Indiana Against Hog Cholera.

ALL FARMERS ARE INTERESTED

$25,000 Set Aside for the Advancement of Plan in This State—Trustworthy Preventive.

Jackson county farmers, who have been fighting hog cholera, will be interested in the following dispatch from Washington which says that the department of agriculture will spend $25,000 in tests on Hoosier hogs.

The dispatch reads:

The Department of Agriculture is preparing to launch immediately an anti-hog cholera campaign in Indiana that will be of interest to every farmer in the state. The office of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the department was busy today with the arrangements, which anticipate cooperation by Governor Ralston and the state veterinarian. Next week experts of the department will be ready to move in Indiana with a serum that is declared to be almost a certain preventive of the disease which every farmer dreads and which has devastated so many of the Indiana herds.

The serum was discovered about six years ago by department experts, but has been used very little because of a lack of money to promote it and because so many farmers have been indifferent to it. The assertion is made that it really is a great discovery, capable of incalculable benefits to the farmers. Usually one inoculation is sufficient to ward off the disease.

Experiments have shown that in practically 100 per cent. of the cases where it has been tried it has proved absolutely trustworthy. It is a preventive only and the department distinctly disavows any intention to assert that it is a cure.

However, hogs belonging to herds in which the disease has appeared, but which themselves have not become infected, are saved by inoculation. That the serum is worth untold millions of dollars to Indiana farmers is the belief of the department.

Luckily Congress, at the last session, appropriated $75,000 with which to introduce the serum to the agricultural world. It has been decided by the department to use this money in three great hog-raising states—Indiana, Iowa and Nebraska.

One-third of the amount, $25,000, goes to Indiana. The money becomes available next Tuesday, the beginning of the new fiscal year. A considerable part of the appropriation will be used for buildings in which to store the serum and pens for hogs. The department is not yet ready to announce the location of the Indiana plant, but it is known that Montgomery County is being considered because of its central position in the state. Dr. Marion Dorset of the Bureau of Animal Industry has been put in charge of the Indiana experiments. Definite arrangements for beginning the work and extending the use of the serum into all parts of the state will be made in communication between the department and Governor Ralston during the next few days.

TEST WILL BE GIVEN OF NEW SAFETY RAIL DEVICE

Railroad Men Interested in Invention of "Lifer" at North Dakota Prison.

Railroad men of Indiana will watch with interest a test at Gary, next month of a safety rail, the invention of a "lifer" in a North Dakota penitentiary, who has worked for years in the perfection of the device. The rail, it is said, may revolutionize the manufacture of steel rails and eliminate wrecks caused from defective rails.

The first official test by railroads will be made at Gary by the Soo Railroad, which has become interested in the invention. F. O. Hellstrom, warden of the North Dakota State Penitentiary, is responsible for the opportunity that was given to work out the convict's invention. Several years ago he laid before Mr. Hellstrom the plan he had in mind, and the warden gave him assistance in the matter of providing working materials.

All of the work was done in the convict's cell, where he labored day after day. The rail is divided into two parts, one serving as the tread to receive the wheel pressure, the other part being a reinforcing hair which holds the tread in position.

It is necessary that the tread should be hard in order to withstand the wear of constant use. This has required the use of a high carbon steel, which crystallizes very easily in cold weather and from other causes and breakages are frequent.

The reinforcing bar is placed back of the rail in such a manner as to sustain it and absorb a portion of the load and shock. This bar not being exposed to the wear and direct shock and hammering of the wheels does not have to be hard and can be made of low carbon steel of great tensile strength and toughness. The two parts are bolted together and spiked to the ties and if the tread portion should break it would still be held in place by the reinforcing bar, which will not break. By this combination of hard and soft material perfect safety is attained, and, it is said, also greater strength and durability result.

NIGHT POLICEMEN DENY THEY USED CLUBS ON BOY

Officers Resent Report Which Started on Night of Supposed Robbery.

The members of the night police force resent the report that they used their clubs upon a boy while investigating a reported robbery in the Third Ward a few nights ago. They deny absolutely that they "clubbed" anyone and say that all such reports are false.

It was stated that the policemen went to the Third Ward and while returning home picked up a lad and "batted" him over the head with their "billies." The officers declare that while returning home they found some one in the yard at the Third Ward school and took him to the house from which the call had been sent in but the parties stated he was not the man wanted. The police then turned him loose, according to their own statement. The night officers are indignant over the report that they used their clubs and say that they want the matter put before the public in the right light.

PROMINENT PLACE OF BATTLE FLAGS

Stars and Bars and Stars and Stripes Will be Seen at Celebration at Gettysburg.

THIS ANNOUNCEMENT MADE

Finishing Touches Put on Big Camp Preparatory to Arrival of Veterans.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 27—That the Stars and Bars as well as the Stars and Stripes will appear at the big camp of veterans during the anniversary celebration was indicated today by an announcement from the office of the anniversary commission that "there is nothing to prevent the wearers of the gray from bringing along their battle flags." At the same time however, it was said that the flag of the Confederacy would not be used in any official decorations over which the commission has control. Residents of Gettysburg and Union veterans already here are extending a royal welcome to all arriving Confederate veterans.

The town itself never has been so gaily decorated. Every business block is covered with the national colors and practically every home displays at least one flag. The Stars and Bars appear at a number of places, while the use of both the blue and the gray is a favorite method of decoration at many buildings. Large pictures of both Union and Confederate generals are much in evidence.

The town is gay with martial music. Many of the veterans have brought their fifes, drums and bugles and the calls of war time days are sounded through the streets, in some instances by the very men who did the same thing during the exciting days of the Gettysburg campaign half a century ago.

Finishing touches were put on the camp today. Equipment was distributed to the five thousand tents, all of which are now up, and everything was in readiness for the fifty thousand old soldiers expected to attend the celebration next week.

"We are thoroughly prepared and have the entire situation well in hand," declared Major Normoyle, in command at the camp. "Every old soldier will find things in readiness for him when he comes here. He will be met at the train and shown the location of his tent. If he is not able to carry his baggage some one will be there to do it for him. He will not have to do a stroke of work, not even fill the water buckets in his tent."

THREAT TO TEAR TOWN TO PIECES

Huerta's Foes Again Marching On Juarez.

TOWNSPEOPLE GETTING OUT

Likelihood That Within Forty-Eight Hours Important Border Town Is Again to Be Given Over to the Rack of Bombardment Has Caused Another Exodus of Non-Combatants to El Paso Side of Rio Grande.

El Paso, June 27.—All coming north over the international bridge a small stream of families accompanied by wagons laden with household goods, more wagons containing valuable merchandise, show that Juarez is awakening to the likelihood that it is again to undergo the rack of bombardment. A message received from Pancho Villa, the ex-bandit constitutional general, who is carrying everything before him in the western part of Chihuahua, said that he would arrive late tomorrow night and tear the town to pieces.

Both constitucionals and federales believe that Juarez will be the scene of a critical fight of the war. Without possession of all the important border customs houses and without the customs, President Huerta would be in serious difficulties.

Villa has about 1,100 men. He expects reinforcements before Sunday from Olinaga and Palomas. He will have nearly 3,000 men in all.

Against this force the federales, under Generals Salazar, Castro and others in Juarez have about 1,000 available fighting force.

Villa's plan, as he divulged it, is to have his dynamite men take the suburbs of Juarez during Saturday night and begin their work of destruction at once. Villa is making this attack on Juarez on his own account and against the wishes of General Venustiano Carranza of Coahuila, the constitutional leader in chief.

HOUSE LISTENS TO AN ATTACK ON PRESIDENT

Author of White Slave Law is Aroused.

Washington, June 27.—The Republican leader and author of the white slave law, Representative J. R. Mann of Illinois, made a bitter attack upon President Wilson and Attorney General McReynolds on the floor of the house because of the developments in the Caminetti-Diggs case. The Republicans intend to push their demand for the production of all the documents relating to it and possibly for a congressional investigation. They intend to compare the facts on record with the McReynolds statement and Mr. Mann's speech was aimed at the vulnerable points in the McReynolds explanation.

Mr. Mann accused the attorney general of "hypocrisy" and attacked the president for upholding his hands. Loud applause on the Republican side frequently greeted Mann's statements. On the whole, though, his speech, so far as it attacked President Wilson, left the impression, even among Republicans, of being very unfair. No action was taken by the house judiciary committee on the Kahn resolution calling on the attorney general for all the papers in the Caminetti-Diggs case. This was due to the failure of a quorum to respond to Chairman Clayton's call for a meeting. Representative Kahn was present and spoke in favor of his resolution. There is no opposition to the measure, and it will be reported at the regular meeting of the committee next week.

Two hundred Russian soldiers have been landed on Mt. Athos with orders to arrest and deport the heretical monks who refuse to recognize the name of Jesus as divine.

It is said the attorney general and the railroad representatives finally have reached an agreement in the matter of dissolving the relations which exist between the Union and Southern Pacific roads.

The senate has passed the Newlands bill providing for mediation, conciliation and arbitration in controversies between railway employees and employers. The bill is an amendment to the Erdman act and increases the scope of that statute.

CURRENCY BILL IS INTRODUCED

Revision 'Measure Now In the Hands of Congress.

BANKERS' PLEA IS UNHEEDED

Argument For the Increase of the Federal Reserve Board from Seven to Eleven Members by Addition of Four Bankers Was Turned Down by the President, Who Does, However, Make Some Concessions to Bankers.

Washington, June 27.—As introduced in the house and senate, the administration currency bill contains the three sections which were stricken out of the original draft and which provide for the gradual retirement of the national bank circulation and the refunding of the 2 per cent United States bonds and the substitution thereof of 3 per cents without the circulating privilege. This is the most important change that has been made in the bill, and it represents a considerable concession to the bankers.

They also obtained another important concession in regard to the power of the federal reserve association to fix the rate of discount for the federal reserve banks. This has been changed so that the reserve banks themselves now have the power of fixing a minimum rate of discount subject to review by the federal reserve board.

There has been also a change in regard to the reserves to be maintained by country banks. While the amount of reserve for country banks remains the same, the following proviso has been added to the section: "Provided that the federal reserve board may in its discretion permit said remainder of 15 per cent reserve required of country banks to consist of balances on deposit with any bank in a reserve or central reserve city, as defined by law."

In regard to the power of the president over the federal reserve board, Mr. Wilson and his advisers have, however, yielded nothing. The board still consists of seven members, all of whom are to be appointed either directly or indirectly by the president. The bankers wanted representation on the board, which they asked to have increased to eleven members by the appointment of four bankers thereto. Furthermore, the president's power over the board has been strengthened by slight changes that have been made in several sections of the measure.

Under the sections of the bill which have been restored the government is authorized to issue not only the $500,000,000 of treasury notes authorized in the bill in its original form, but also additional notes in an amount equal to the amount of national bank notes retired. The national bank currency is to be retired gradually over a period of twenty years, but the bill in reality now carries authorization for the issuing of the $500,000,000 plus $712,000,000, the amount of the outstanding national bank notes. The bill in its original form provided that one-half of the net earnings of the federal reserve banks shall be paid into the surplus fund. The framers of the measure have made a change apparently to correct an oversight qualifying this with the words, "after dividend claims have been met."

The bill as altered gives the federal reserve board more positively the right to cancel the membership of any state bank or trust company in the federal reserve scheme.

The bill was immediately referred to the appropriation committees both in the senate and house.

MENACING SECRET SOCIETY

Sicilian Police Unearth Vast Criminal Conspiracy.

Palermo, June 27.—The police have just discovered a vast secret association with headquarters in the small town of Altavilla. It is wonderfully organized and there are male and female sections. The object of the association is to commit profitable crimes. Special attention was devoted to the white slave traffic, and this section was presided over by a woman who was known as "Redhead."

All the members are elected by ballot. One man who was blackballed denounced the association to the police. Several of the members were thereupon arrested, while several others who were connected with prominent families disappeared. The police have instituted a search for them.

HOOSIER SURVIVORS OFF TO GETTYSBURG

Indiana Veterans will Get An Early Start.

Indianapolis, June 27.—The event of the first day on the Gettysburg battlefield by the 500 Indiana soldiers and citizens who will attend next week's celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the famous engagement will be a visit to each of the monuments erected to the memory of the heroes of the six Indiana regiments who fell in battle.

The Indiana delegation, which will leave Indianapolis in two special trains at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, will arrive at Gettysburg, Pa., late Sunday and on Monday morning the visit to each of the Indiana monuments will be paid.

A short ceremony will be held at each monument. The first monument to be visited will be that of the Third cavalry. Visits then will follow to the monuments of the Nineteenth, Fourteenth, Seventh, Twenty-seventh and Twentieth regiments, the Indiana regiments that took part in the great battle. Governor Ralston and soldiers representing the various regiments will deliver short addresses. It is planned to take photographs of the survivors of each of the regiments as they stand around the monument to their regiment.

The celebration proper will not begin until Tuesday, July 1, which was the date of the first day's engagement, but the Indiana soldiers, arriving a day early, will have a celebration and reunion of their own. July 2 also is to be observed as Indiana day.

The Gettysburg anniversary commission of Indiana will establish headquarters at the City hotel at Gettysburg, and mail sent to Indiana men attending the celebration should be addressed in care of the commission. The tents to be occupied by the Indiana soldiers are in a desirable part of the cantonment.

COMPLICATIONS PROMISED

Residents of a California Town Precipitate Race Question.

Riverside, Cal., June 27.—The anti-Oriental sentiment of citizens of Hemet, a little mountain town ten miles from here, may lead to international complications with Japan. A party of Hemet citizens drove out of town a party of Korean apricot pickers who had been engaged by orchardists near town. The Asiatics were not maltreated, but they were escorted to a train and forced to leave at once. When told by the ranchers who engaged the Orientals that they were Koreans, not Japanese, the leaders of the mob said: "That makes no difference. They are Asiatics, and we don't want either them or the Japanese."

The secretary of the Japanese association of Southern California telegraphed the facts of the case to the Japanese consul general in San Francisco. As Korea is a Japanese dependency it is expected the consul will demand protection for these men.

Gives Votes to Illinois Women.

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—Governor Dunne has signed the woman's suffrage bill which gives to 1,600,000 women of Illinois the right to take part in the election of all officials except those created by the constitution.

Robbers Make Big haul.

Greensburg, Ind., June 27.—Robbers obtained $1,072 from the safe in the office of Tyner & Son's elevator at Westport. The safe had not been locked.

DRUGGISTS ARE IN FAVOR OF IT

State Association Commends Anti-Dope Law.

THINK STATUTE A GOOD ONE

The New Law Against Selling Hurtful Narcotics Receives the Earnest Favor of Members of Indiana Pharmaceutical Association in Annual Convention, Who Express Their Intention of Obeying Letter of the Law.

Warsaw, Ind., June 27.—The 300 or 400 druggists in attendance at the annual convention of the Indiana Pharmaceutical association at Lake Wawasee expressed their intention of living up to the letter of the new law against selling narcotics. Burton Cassidy of Terre Haute, secretary of the state board of pharmacy, explained every provision of the new law regulating the sale of injurious drugs. He gave particular emphasis to the penalty that comes from the violation of the law, a fine of from $25 to $500 and imprisonment of from ninety days to a year for the first offense, and a fine of from $200 to $1,000 and from one to eight years imprisonment for second offense. The druggists think the law a good one.

SAVED HIS MOTHER'S LIFE

But in Doing So, Lafayette Lad Killed His Father.

Lafayette, Ind., June 27.—Paul Barger, aged eighteen, shot and killed his father, John C. Barger, a Monon freight conductor. The father was under the influence of liquor. He came downstairs and seized Mrs. Barger, who was in bed, by the throat. It seems that the son rushed to his mother's defense and shot his father three times. Young Barger is known here as an exemplary young man.

Mrs. Barger, in her statement to the prosecutor, said she could not remember all that happened. The only light in the room at the time was from the street lights. She said, however, she felt certain her husband would have killed her. She gave her son credit for saving her life.

"I am sure," she said, "Paul did not mean to kill his father, because he said so himself just after the shooting. Paul was protecting me. He is gentlemanly and courteous, and always has been kind to me. My husband had a terrible temper, and his mother once said to me she never knew a more brutal man when his temper was aroused."

Speedway Takes Further Toll of Blood

Indianapolis, June 27.—Harry Martin, mechanic for Merz in the recent 500-mile race at the speedway, was killed and Frank Agen, mechanic for Anderson, was probably fatally injured on the speedway track when their car, a new racing model, threw a tire and overturned. Martin was instantly killed and Agen suffered a compound fracture of the skull. Surgeons declare there is little hope of his recovery.

Too Old For Foolishness.

Warsaw, Ind., June 27.—L. W. Sisk, sixty-two years old, is dead as the result of injuries suffered when trying to be young again. He called to his little grandson to watch him and attempted to "skin the cat" on the wire clothesline in the back yard of his home. The line broke and he fell on his neck and shoulders. He died before the hospital was reached. An examination showed that his neck had been dislocated.

Relieves Condition With Shot.

Champaign, Ill., June 27.—James Woodward saved his life when he shot himself through the breast with a revolver, in the opinion of physicians. Dropsy caused suffering for weeks. He was unable to get relief from physicians, and shot himself after he had taken a dose of morphine. Large quantities of fluid flowed from the wound. He got instant relief, and physicians believe he will live.

His Wife Used a Gun.

Wabash, Ind., June 27.—Lewis French, against whom divorce proceedings were recently instituted, was shot but not seriously wounded by his wife while he was attempting to enter her home. French was attempting to batter down a door when his wife appeared with a revolver and ordered him away. He refused to go, and Mrs. French fired three shots, one of which took effect.

Train Had a Close Call.

Lafayette, Ind., June 27.—Just ten minutes before a Big Four passenger train was due here the second pier of the railway bridge spanning the Wabash river collapsed and fell into the river. The bridge was badly damaged by the flood in March.

Young Man Victim of Tramps.

Connersville, Ind., June 27.—A young man unable to give his name, was found badly beaten and with clothing torn in a box car near Longwood. He revived sufficiently to murmur something about assault and robbery by tramps.

Noted Aviator Flies From French to British Capital.

London, June 27.—Claude Graham White has made the first hydroplane journey from Paris to London. He started from the French capital at 5:50 in the morning, following the course of the Seine. He arrived at Boulogne at 10:55. He crossed the channel and reached Dover at 1 o'clock. Thence he followed the Thames from its mouth and landed at Putney at 5:15.

HAS'N'T UNRAVELED THE BALKAN TANGLE

The Actual Position Down There Unknown.

London, June 27.—Not yet has the Balkan tangle been unravelled. The actual position is unknown, but the fight on the north bank of the Zetovo river between the Serbs and the Bulgars is not regarded as the beginning of war or as necessarily making the situation worse.

All of the reports of this battle came from the Serbian side and were doubtless exaggerated. It is now represented from Sofia that the so-called battle was an unimportant skirmish in which only a band of Bulgarian irregulars were engaged.

The rumor that a Russian fleet has left Sebastopol to make a demonstration at Varna and Burgas, on the Black sea, near the Bulgarian frontier, is not confirmed, and is regarded as improbable.

SAYS HE IS COMING BACK

That is What Jack Johnson Gives Out For Publication.

Montreal, June 27.—Jack Johnson has arrived here from Toronto. He states his reason for going to Toronto was to collect a sum of over $22,000 due to him in that city, which he did. He is going to Russia and has chosen the Canadian route, as he considers it the best and points to the numbers of Americans using it in preference to any other. Johnson wishes it to be known that he will be back in November in New York in time to surrender to his bond, adding that he has no intention of giving $45,000 away by forfeiting it, and claims that he can prove his innocence of the charges. He further states that the lawsuit already has cost him over $100,000. His wife is with him and will accompany him to St. Petersburg.

LESSON XIII. June 29

FOR INDIVIDUAL REVIEW OF THE QUARTER.

LESSON I.—Jacob and Esau, Gen. xxvii, 22-34. Golden Text, Isa. xxx, 18. "Jehovah is a God of justice; blessed are all they that wait for Him." This is a sad story of deceit and lying, illustrating the fact that "the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked" (Jer. xvii, 9). Had Rebekah believed God fully and firmly she would not have acted so. If Christians today believed God they would not stoop to any of the many unbelieving methods of helping God to work.

LESSON II.—Jacob and Bethel, Gen. xxviii, 10-22. Golden Text, Gen. xxviii, 15. "I am with thee and will keep thee whithersoever thou goest." This is a lesson on the great grace of God toward a penitent sinner, one of the most remarkable visions ever granted to any one and referred to by the Lord Himself, who gave it to Jacob in Gen. i, 51.

LESSON III.—Jacob's Meeting With Esau, Gen. xxxiii, 1-15. Golden Text, Eph. iv, 32. "Be ye kind one to another, tender hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you." The groundlessness of our fears when we have committed all to the Lord is manifest in the meeting of Esau and Jacob.

LESSON IV.—Joseph Sold Into Egypt, Gen. xxxvii, 23-36. Golden Text, 1 Cor. xiii, 4. "Love envieth not." God is ever working out His eternal purpose, and the time will come when we will bless the hand that guided and the heart that planned, though for the present we may be as sorely tried as was Jacob and as grievously dealt with as was Joseph.

LESSON V.—Joseph Interprets Dreams, Gen. xl, 9-23. Golden Text, Job xxviii, 8. "The breath of the Almighty giveth them understanding." The slavery and imprisonment of Joseph seem to us most cruel, but we must see the hand of God in all and in all the events of our own lives. It is written: "He called for a famine." "He sent a man before them, even Joseph." "He was laid in iron until the time that His word came" (Ps. cv, 16-19).

LESSON VI.—Joseph Made Ruler of Egypt, Gen. xli, 25-40. Golden Text, 1 Pet. v, 5. "God giveth grace to the humble." Joseph's power, God given, to interpret dreams is now made use of for his own benefit and great deliverance. The forgetful butler remembered his faults. The wisdom of Egypt was of no use in the things of God. God enabled Joseph to interpret the king's dreams and thus raised him from the dungeon to the throne and made him ruler over all Egypt.

LESSON VII.—Joseph Meets His

Oklahoma Letter.

Carmen, Okla., June 19, 1913. Editor Seymour Republican:

In the wheat fields of Northwest Oklahoma, we are in the midst of the harvest that will continue two or three more weeks. On account of wheat being too short to use the binder, the headers that have rested for a few years have been overhauled and put to work. Wheat is not as good as last year on account of dry weather during the growing season. Corn is doing fine, and will have an extra crop if seasonable. Plenty of fruit of all kinds. Vegetables not up to standard.

We left Seymour at midnight of the 10th, and arrived in St. Louis Wednesday morning. We laid over in St. Louis and visited the town. We took a 20-mile sight-seeing trip in an automobile. We visited the World's Fair ground and other parks and drives. Thursday night we traveled through some rough country in the Missouri—hills, valleys, rocks, thickets and every imaginable soil from red to black, poor and rich. Great piles of rocks were there which the farmers had cleared from their land, as we in Hoosierdom pile brush and logs, only we burn them. Miles of rock fencing. We saw a great deal of scrub and bushy land that was cut off, plowed and planted in corn, and how it grew we don't know.

We saw some fine orchards in the rocky region of Missouri in blocks of ten to one hundred acres each. The western part of Missouri and eastern part of Oklahoma is as fine a fruit country as can be found anywhere. We reached the cotton belt fifty miles from Tulsa. The cotton was just coming up and some had been worked. Along the bluffs of the Arkansas river we saw some of the finest scenery we have ever seen. Great rocks on hillsides that nature had carved into wonderful designs. Sand and limestone hills, nothing but solid rocks, hundreds of feet in height. A great many shale hills are also seen. We saw some beautiful towns and villages. We were employed to work in the harvest field before arriving at our destination, and began harvesting the 16th. Respectfully,

JOHN F. JOHNSON.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get a double strength—double strength—from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure and ask for the double strength as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Best Laxative for the Aged

Old men and women feel the need of a laxative more than young folks, but it must be safe and harmless and one which will not cause pain. Dr. King's New Life Pills are especially good for the aged, for they act promptly and easily. Price 25c. Recommended by H. H. Carter, Successor to The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. Advertisement.

Wilsons Start Their Outing.

Washington, June 27.—President Wilson leaves Washington today for Cornish, N. H., taking his family with him. Mr. Wilson intends to spend a week assisting Mrs. Wilson and the Misses Wilson to get settled for the summer, returning to Washington on July 7. President Wilson does not expect to be able to spend more than the week-end with his family until after Congress closes.

TEXAS CITY HAS PLANS FOR CIVIC DEVELOPMENT.

Improvements to Consist of Street, Sewer and Water Main Extensions.

The city plan committee of the San Antonio (Tex.) chamber of commerce is having prepared at an expenditure of several thousand dollars a comprehensive and modern city plan, which will care for the future development and growth of the city for a period of fifty years after it has been completed and the first steps taken to put it into effect. This plan is being made by a force of experts under the direction of Myron H. West, city planner and builder, of Chicago.

In order to put this plan in operation the voters of San Antonio will be called upon to vote a bond issue of $5,000,000, which will provide for street, sewer and water main extensions, along with other civic improvements. The passage of the bond issue is assured, and several contracting firms from the north and east have already opened offices there, with a view of bidding on and securing contracts for the improvement work.

In the way of street improvements for the present the work will consist of repaving the principal streets in the business section of the city and the main arteries of traffic or thoroughfares leading to the suburban residence districts. It is expected that $2,000,000 will be spent in this work.

A bond issue of $300,000, with an additional $90,000 appropriated by the city, has already been passed for widening Commerce street, one of the principal business streets, for a distance of several blocks, from Alamo street to Main plaza. The abutting property owners have pledged themselves for another $100,000, and the entire work will cost about $500,000. The street at present varies in width, and the fronting buildings will be set back to make it a uniform width of sixty-five feet. The setback will range from thirteen to twenty-three feet.

SCHOOL GARDENS INCREASE.

Growing Interest In Movement Largely Due to Women's Clubs.

School gardens continue to receive a constantly increasing share of public attention. From very many parts of the country reports bear witness to this widespread interest. There can be no question that the movement should be encouraged by all who are in any way concerned in practical horticulture. If the younger generation has implanted in it an intelligent interest in garden routine work, together with an intelligent acquaintance with growing plants, there will not be the need of so much missionary work in garden art in the future as there has been in the past.

It is to the women's clubs very largely that the present movement owes its vitality, says the Los Angeles Times. In the interest which the members of these organizations evince in the young and the beautiful they have taken hold of an issue which would most properly come within the field of the action of the horticultural societies. Only very few of these latter have realized their opportunity. Local horticultural societies must do something more than hold stated meetings whereat formal addresses are presented, usually on a topic worn threadbare by long service and at which but a small percentage of the membership is present. How many such societies, started in enthusiasm, peter out after a few years without any apparent reason? The members themselves wonder what is the matter with their society.

The matter is that they are doing nothing really, creating nothing, making no progress. In order to be alive the society must be aggressive. It must carry its tenets and principles beyond the confines of the meeting room and attack problems of public weal. The school garden movement was started some eighty years ago, but its most rapid development has been within the last decade. Work in this country is not by any means sufficiently widespread. With a round 100,000 school gardens in Europe, it is any wonder that garden art has reached a wider distribution across the ocean than it has with us?

Communities Should Pull Together.

A single snowflake falling upon the broad landscape ultimately melts and leaves no visible trace of its abortive effort, but when joined to millions of others the earth is soon covered with a white mantle, says the Farm Journal. A single brook wending its way through the valley is weak and impotent, but joined with others it forms a great stream whose flow speeds the wheels of industry. A single man in a community can do little by himself, but by joining men of kindred aims the union can do much for the moral, mental and physical betterment of the community. Neighborhoods cease to grow when the people cease to labor in union and work at cross purposes. Therefore it is essential for the community's advancement that all pull together. There should be no room in any neighborhood for pullbacks.

Tree Is Not a Nuisance.

A tree that has been standing for many years in a highway without being considered an impediment to travel cannot be considered a nuisance if found to extend a few inches into the street when curbs are to be put in, but the curb must be arranged to carry water, etc., past the tree so that it will not interfere with the improvement of the street in a workmanlike manner, according to a recent decision by a Maryland court.

ARTIST TO LIVE AS SAVAGE.

Joseph Knowles, Boston Painter, Enjoys Outdoor Life.

Boston, June 27.—To prove that the people of the twentieth century need not be slaves to civilized convention, Joseph Knowles, a Boston painter of outdoor life, plans to plunge into the wilderness of Northern Maine next week, without clothing, food, matches, firearms or ammunition.

He promises to stay there until October 1, to subsist on fish, game, berries and wild vegetables, and to come out fully clothed. He will live fifty or sixty miles away from any settlement and will accept no help from the outside world.

Knowles will make his own fire by friction; will build a log cabin from material he finds in the woods, and will make traps out of what he discovers in the practically unexplored northern part of the Pine Tree State.

Railroad Society to Disband.

Chicago, June 27.—The American Railroad Employees and Investors Association has decided to disband next Tuesday, for the purpose of checking legislation hostile to the transportation companies and to bring about a better understanding between the railroads and their employees.

P. H. Morrissey, president of the association, is to become assistant to Vice-President H. E. Bryan of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, assuming his new duties at once. He formerly was president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Wisconsin Legislature Ends.

Madison, June 27.—The State legislature today takes a recess until Jan. 1, 1914. During the recess, however, a committee will investigate the water power question, mothers' pension and the direct marketing, and report their findings at the meeting of the legislature.

ALL IN THE SAME BOAT.

They Selected an Unlucky Time For Their Gastronomic Crime.

Most people have a pet aversion, and that of King Edward VII. was onions. The odor of the fragrant bulb on another's breath was simply maddening to the usually genial monarch. In this connection an anecdote is related by C. W. Stamper, who was the king's motor mechanic, in his book, "What I Know." The royal party was enjoying a vacation at Biarritz. Stamper confesses that the sergeant footman, the king's courier and the postmaster lunched heartily on beefsteak and onions one day, and soon afterward the king wanted to see the postmaster. So the courier, named Fehr, called the sergeant footman, named Hawkins, and the king was proceeding to tell him, when he stopped short, looked at the man and angrily blurted out:

"Hawkins, you've been eating onions!"

"No, your majesty," protested the unlucky Hawkins.

"Yes, you have. I'm sure you have. Send Mr. Hiley here at once and Mr. Fehr."

"Yes, your majesty."

The sergeant footman withdrew, and presently Postmaster Hiley was announced. The king called him to his side and was beginning to read to him a telegram he wanted him to dispatch when he suddenly burst out:

"Hiley, you've been eating onions!"

"No, your majesty," said the postmaster, instinctively recoiling.

"Yes, you have; it's disgraceful."

The courier then entered the room and approached very warily, but his majesty's sense of smell was keen, and all Fehr's efforts to suppress the facts in the case were unavailing. The king looked up sharply, sat back in his chair and groaned:

"I'm — if you haven't been eating onions too."

MAKING THE REAL HOME

Some one has called the real home a "happy combination of conditions." It is just that. No one thing alone makes a home, but various elements happily combined.

Naturally a factor in the combination is money. It is not so much the possession of money or the lack of it that counts as the way in which it is used.

Generally speaking, men are the money getters, and women are the money spenders. This system puts a great responsibility on the women. The woman is, in the final analysis, the home maker, and if her home is to be a real one she must spend the family income wisely, be it great or small.

There is no surer way for her to make each dollar bring its full value of comfort and good cheer than by keeping herself informed as to what is in the market, where it is to be had, and at what price; by reading each day the advertisements in THE REPUBLICAN and other good newspapers.

NATURE'S CREATION SAVES ANOTHER GIRL

ESTLEE DEPERT.

Estlee Deppert, the charming little daughter of William H. Deppert, Indianapolis, is well and strong again. She was well, sleeps well and enjoys life as thoroughly as any romping little American girl. All this she owes to Nature's Creation, the standard remedy for tuberculosis and asthma. She was hanging on to life by a thread at the time her parents became acquainted with Nature's Creation. But let her father tell the story. "About three and one-half years ago my daughter Estlee had tuberculosis of the bone. It was first in her right leg. I treated with a prominent doctor of this city and he scraped the bone in the leg and ten days later he amputated the leg above the knee. A short time afterward the trouble appeared in her left arm, where an abscess formed, and also in her left leg. The doctor said her left arm would have to be scraped, but I refused to let him do it. I changed doctors several times, having seen three doctors and two specialists altogether, and all of them said practically the same thing: that the only thing to be done would be to scrape the bone. I had been reading in the papers about Nature's Creation, and called on Helen Wodell, 3104 Northwestern avenue, whose testimonial I had seen. My visit convinced me of the merits of Nature's Creation and I began giving it to my daughter. After she began on the medicine the abscess on her arm opened and discharged the poisonous matter. The sore on her leg also opened, and then both healed nicely. She has been gaining steadily, and every one who knew of the condition she was in is surprised at the remarkable improvement she has made. She has a fine color, and gained a good deal in weight, appetite is good and she is out of doors most of the time. She also helps her mother about the house. I can say positively that Nature's Creation saved her life and I am sure if we had continued with the doctors she would have been dead a year ago. I sincerely hope that any one who has this disease will give Nature's Creation a trial. Sincerely, William H. Deppert, 1320 Springdale avenue, Indianapolis." The original letter from Mr. Deppert is on file in our office along with scores of others telling of the remarkable benefits derived by men, women and children from Nature's Creation. Write to-day for free booklet containing full information regarding the use of Nature's Creation in the treatment of tuberculosis and the conditions which lead up to it, such as bronchitis, impure blood, run-down system and asthma. This book also contains photos and testimonials from local parties. Final Arrangements Made For Visiting Veterans at Gettysburg.

Gettysburg, Pa., June 27.—The Federal Government officials presiding over the Gettysburg celebration to begin next week, today began checking up the lists of persons employed to look out for comfort of the veterans will gather here. Eight hundred thousand meals will be furnished the Union and Confederate veterans who will be guests of the United States Government and the State of Pennsylvania on the field of conflict during the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. The checking up today is to see that everyone will be on hand tomorrow, the date of real employment.

Allowance will be made for 20 meals for each veteran. This will require 800 cooks and as many helpers, and 125 bakers, the baking to be done in field bakeries and the preparing of meals in field kitchens. The feeding of this army of veterans will require 40,000 mess kits, comprising one plate, cup, knife, fork and spoon for each man. In the camp will be more than 9,500 tents, which will be pitched in fields not far from the scene of Pickett's charge. The camp will be exclusively for veterans.

Pennsylvania will allot space in the camp by states, the commissioner for each state being in charge of the space assigned to him.

PRISON PAROLES.

At the present session of the state board of pardons during the discussion of the proposed pardon for Rev. William E. Hinshaw, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of his wife, some interesting facts were brought out regarding the second release of life prisoners after they have been returned for the violation of their first paroles.

Miles J. Furnas, representing Mr. Hinshaw said:
"Allow me to call your attention to the fact that out of seven cases where prisoners serving life sentences have been paroled and returned to the State Prison for violation of their paroles," said Mr. Furnas, "only one of them besides Mr. Hinshaw is today within the walls of the prison and he has been there only about seven months."

"The life prisoners who have been released and then returned to the prison for violating their parole have remained prisoners only an average of two years, eight months and twenty-four days before being paroled for a second time, though they, so far as I can learn, enjoyed good health."

It is well and good that a prisoner should be paroled when his physical condition demands it and if there is any assurance that he will reform after he leaves the prison doors, but there is great doubt in the minds of many of us whether or not it is advisable to release a prisoner time after time especially when he shows no desire to live a better life. Some of the worst crimes have been committed by released prisoners who should never have been permitted to step from behind the bars until their terms were completed.

A prison sentence is given as a punishment and the jury or judge who fixed the length of the term are usually in a position to know how long a man should be punished for his wrong doing. In several states an effort is being made to abolish the practice of paroling murderers, rapists and other criminals sent up for life as a large percentage of them do not become desirable citizens after they are given their freedom. Of course, it is a terrible thing to keep behind the bars a man who will reform but paroles should be given after an investigation of the man himself without reference to his political affiliation or "pull."

With a good wheat crop in sight and highly encouraging prospects for a bumper corn crop, indications are most favorable for a good business year for the merchants of Jackson county. In an agricultural community, such as this, large crops and good prices play an important part in the general prosperity of the community. The Seymour merchants are entitled to a large share of the business of this county and no mistake can be made in showing their customers what they have to offer. The shops in this city are second to none in the state and all the wants of the local people can be supplied at home.

Vigorous attacks are being made on the administration currency bill and it will more than likely have a rough and rocky path to travel before it becomes a law. The measure will be sent to the Banking and Currency committee and the members will hear many protests from all parts of the country. The banking interests of the United States are much concerned over some of the provisions of the proposed law.

The citizens of Cincinnati are experiencing an ice famine because of the strike of the employees of the ice manufacturing plants. The prices have soared to the top notch during the past two days and in some sections of the city the situation is serious. The strikers certainly selected an opportune time to demand an increase in wages as ice has become almost a necessity in many households during the summer months.

Tree-Fruit Insects.

"The tree-fruits," says Professor Troop of the Entomological Department, Purdue University, "are infested by a greater variety of insects than any other class of plants. More than 200 species are known to infest either the trees or fruit in some form. Some of them are only of minor importance, but the greater number often produce serious results if no remedies are applied. The Woolly aphis attacks the roots; the borers and bark-beetles attack the trunks; the numerous species of scale and bark-lice attack the branches; the various forms of caterpillars and plant-lice devour the leaves, or suck the life out of them while the codling moth, apple maggot, and different species of curculio strive to outdo each other in destroying the fruit."

"In applying remedies for all of these, one thing must be borne in mind, that is, the remedy must always be suited to the habits of the insect. For example, the sucking species, like plant-lice, must be treated with a contact poison, such as kerosene emulsion. In order to prevent the borers and bark beetles from gaining entrance, a repellent, such as soap and carbolic acid, is used on the trunk, while the scales should be treated to the lime-sulphur wash. The caterpillars and most fruit insects may be held in check by a proper use of a stomach poison, such as Paris green or some other compound of arsenic."

Postmaster Named.

Congressman Dixon has at last settled the postoffice squabble at his home town, North Vernon, by naming James N. Culp, editor of the North Vernon Sun, as postmaster. The fight there was bitter, like it is in several other places in the Fourth district, and Congressman Dixon has delayed the appointment for several months. J. S. Smith, the retiring postmaster, resigned about a year ago but no successor was appointed until this time. Mr. Culp is well known at North Vernon and has taken an active part in democratic politics in Jennings county.

PROTECT HOME NEIGHBORHOODS

Policy of Safeguarding Them Should Be Followed.

CITIES HAVE DONE LITTLE.

Systematic Municipal Planning Is Necessary to Create and Maintain Healthful and Attractive Residential Districts—Restrictions Essential to Prevent Exploitation.

By J. C. NICHOLS of Kansas City.

City planning in almost every phase of its wide modern meaning has taken root in the public conscience. Yet we have thus far done very little as communities or as municipalities to properly create, safeguard and guide the growth of home neighborhoods.

Much has been written about the proper regulation and construction of streets for residence property. But the subdividing of land for residential purposes in practically all American cities is generally left to chance or the direction of selfish private interests. City authorities have to some extent made certain general requirements as to a reasonable continuity and regularity of streets, but little progress has been made toward planning residential subdivisions.

A few good residence neighborhoods have been provided in almost every city by the ordinary real estate development. The period over which the safeguards in these areas extend is generally of mere nominal duration in proportion to the life of the city and covers only a small section. City control in residence neighborhoods practically ends with the boundary lines of the street and the boulevard. And today, with only an occasional exception, the individual owner in our residence neighborhoods does whatever he pleases upon the property which he owns without regard to the interest of his neighborhood or his community.

Often the majority of the population, because of the haphazard development

HOLD BIG PICNIC TO MAKE TOWN RECREATION PARK.

Wenonah Men Swing Axes While Women Prepare Dinner For Toilers.

The good folk of Wenonah, N. J., recently decided to have a public recreation park. Just how to get it, however, was the question. Mayor C. Fowler and the officers of the Wenonah Municipal Improvement association after discussing various plans decided that the best way was to call on the citizens and boys and girls of the town for aid.

A big picnic was organized, and after a day of labor, mingled with recreation, the picnicers saw their new recreation park well established. All day the men swung axes or scythes, the boys chopped with hatchets, and the women and the girls baked or prepared good things to eat.

When darkness put an end to the work the little army of axmen and rakers had cleared a large tract in the thirty acres of woodland skirting Wenonah lake and made it suitable for picnics and all sorts of healthy recreations for the townspeople.

The thirty acre tract was acquired by the borough a year ago, when it purchased its waterworks, and is one of the most beautiful spots in this region. The council recently voted to permit the Mutual Improvement association to establish a park on this land. Without waiting for a municipal appropriation to improve the place the association called for volunteers and held its town picnic, with the result that the park is now assured.

While the men worked the women of the town prepared a picnic dinner in a large circus tent on the shore of the lake and at noon fed more than 150 hungry workers.

The roadbed of the old Cape May railroad runs through the park, and this is to be later converted into a boulevard, skirted by artificial lakes, running from Wenonah to Woodbury and avoiding the dangerous crossings of the electric shore line. Ties torn from the old railroad, which was abandoned several years ago when the line was strengthened, were torn up and the sound ones used for building bridges. Great quantities of brush were cut away, and an expert forester marked diseased trees, which will later be felled.

ADVERTISING TO GET RESULTS

The Right Kind Certain to Bring an Increase of Business.

Advertising is simple to some people and very difficult and complicated to others. The former class never spends a dollar on printing ink without the assurance of good returns. The other class sometimes spends thousands of dollars without the slightest result.

Is it a mystery? Not at all. A thoroughly experienced person can tell beforehand whether an advertising campaign will pay. It is not easy to say just what form of advertisement will give the best results, but it is easy enough to select the method of advertising which will give such results.

There is a right way and a wrong way of conducting an advertising campaign, and good advertisements and good mediums may prove worthless if the advertiser has chosen the wrong way.

Speaking generally, the mail order system is one of the wrong ways, although it may pay individuals. It is merely a substitute, a temporary substitute, for the true and tried old system of retailing merchandise. Take the case of the retail grocer who sells a private blend of tea and who is trying to build a big demand through the mails. He may ultimately create a fair business by mail, but it should be obvious even to himself that a far wider outlet awaits a similar article pushed through the usual trade channels.

Mail order business is an unnatural business and is not likely to be a permanent feature of the country's commerce. The magic of advertising? That's right. The magician's wand cannot do the expected job with one wave, however, nor can it work its wonders through a single class of mediums.

The public must be reached, and each of these branches of the advertising job must receive proper treatment. If one is neglected in the least there will be disappointment. The retailer's advertising task is, as a rule, much simpler than the manufacturer's, except, of course, when he wishes to push his own private brands into general distributive channels.

To Kill Germs in Streets.

The destruction of dust germs in streets and gutters through the use of a city street sprinkler is recommended by Thomas H. Ham, an attorney of Albany, N. Y. He suggests that a bag of sulphate of iron, placed in the water tank sufficient in amount to make a 1 per cent solution, would kill innumerable dust germs and parasites.

"The mayors of the cities of the state should try the plan in the interest of public health," said Mr. Ham. This method would prove very inexpensive and tend to lessen those diseases which are spread through the germs in dust.

Pupils Raise Money For Schools.

Money for the operation and maintenance of the public schools of Blue Island, Ill., when taxes were inadequate was raised when 800 school children participated in a brilliant pageant of nations. This plan was hit upon by the kids themselves, and teachers aided in the event.

THE GRANGE

Conducted by J. W. DARROW, Chatham, N. Y., Editor of the New York State Grange Review

A GRANGE AT WORK

Progressive Pomona Grange in Pennsylvania.

Owens and Operates an Extensive Rural Telephone Service, Runs a Big Fair and Encampment and Co-operates in Buying Supplies.

(Special Correspondence.)

The grange activities of Center county, Pa., are noteworthy. There are twenty-four subordinate granges in the county and a Pomona grange, which is the center of the grange movement in that central county of the state. The grange hall, located at Center Hall, Pa., is the headquarters of several lines of co-operative work, all of which are eminently successful. It has become the evident sign of a new era of educational and social life in the little village of about 500 souls because the benefits that radiate from it have spread beyond the narrow limits of the town and have affected the community for miles around.

Among the noteworthy activities of Center county grange are the fair and encampment grounds, owned by the grange and incorporated. Grange park embraces twenty-eight acres and cost the grange $5,000. Every year it holds a fair and an encampment. Last year there were 3,000 entries in the exhibition hall on the grounds, and a small cash premium is paid on every article placed on exhibition, and paid when the fair opens. No blanks, no disappointment, no contest, no prizes, no horse racing, no gambling. Public meetings are held daily in the large auditorium, addressed by eminent speakers, and every evening entertainments are given there by reputable companies. In the encampment are a thousand farmers and their families living in tents furnished by the grange fair association, thus combining enjoyment and instruction.

This grange also operates an extensive rural telephone service, the company being incorporated with $10,000 capital, and the plan of co-operation and representation runs through the whole scheme. The central company pays all taxes and makes reports to the state and national governments. It also pays the rental of exchanges and charges stockholders a yearly rental of $10 per phone and nonstockholders $12. There are now about 400 phones on the grange lines in the county. A branch company may be organized with not less than six phones, the branch company erecting its own pole line. Each such branch elects one director to the central company, and the county grange elects six directors and makes all the rules to govern the company. The county grange is a subscriber to every branch company, the price of the shares being $10 each. It may be interesting to know that the cost is about $50 per mile for wire, poles, brackets and setting, the price varying with the cost of labor. The success of the system is remarkable, but it could not have been so without the personal service feature which enters into the plan. Each farmer keeps the line in repair that runs through his property, and there are no salaries. This is the secret of its success. It is practical, not theoretical, co-operation.

Another one of the activities of Center county grange is its fire insurance company. This was organized nearly thirty-nine years ago, and for that time the average cost of insurance per $100, including survey, premium and policy, has been 20-25 cents. Here again the organization is representative and co-operative. Only grange members can be insured. If a man loses his grange membership he must withdraw from the company. No one is eligible to office in the company unless he has property insured. Each subordinate grange elects one director, and the directors elect the officers. The county grange elects three auditors, who audit the accounts of the directors. The plan works out admirably. Besides this co-operative insurance, the grange is developing a scheme of co-operative buying which is already saving dollars to the grange farmers of Center county. By buying in large quantities and by the use of trade cards on approved houses a large saving is made on the necessities of life, and in this manner the cost of living has been materially reduced.

This co-operative work in a Pennsylvania county can be duplicated in almost any county in any state where the grange is strong and where such operations are wisely and economically managed. But businesslike management there must be. There must also be a willingness on the part of farmers to get together in this way and stay together. And yet it is the one thing that kills attempted co-operation in many places—inability to hang together through thick and thin and distrust of one another. But this is not a characteristic of the grange farmers of this Pennsylvania town. Why should it be of any?

J. W. DARROW.

A Grange Market.

At Manhattan, Kan., the grange is preparing to establish a market where farmers may sell direct to consumers. They will secure space in the city for the purpose and give the plan a trial.

THE UNION LABEL.

Purchasing Power of Labor a Source of Strength.

ITS METHOD ONE OF PEACE.

How the Sympathy of the General Public May Be Won For the Cause. Disloyalty of Union Men to the Label a Serious Obstacle to Success.

We as trade unionists are just beginning to realize the value of an organized and concentrated use of our purchasing power in support of union label goods, thus compelling the unionizing of industries and enforcing the rights of the workers therein. This is not only the strongest weapon we have at our command, but it is also a method of peace, accomplishing its purpose of conferring the largest benefits upon the workers with the minimum of labor warfare. As a method of peaceful evolution it should be especially acceptable to the public, who in the near future is likely to be disturbed by labor troubles even more than it has been in the past.

In building up the power of union label purchases we need the assistance of every friend and ally we can gain among the general public, and this is the issue, more than any and all others, on which we wish to reach the sympathies of the public mind. If they dislike the quarrelsome way of settling labor disputes we must secure their assistance in support of the peaceful way—the union label way.

We can reach the public by advertising methods, continually calling their attention to the advantages to the community of freedom from industrial disputes; by showing the amount of money paid in wages in union industries—a matter of vital interest to merchants and professional men—and by circular literature and newspaper advertising. In all of which the matter and form of presentation should be most carefully prepared.

We can reach the public by constant agitation work by unions and by committees, calling upon retail merchants, obtaining audiences with religious or fraternal meetings and utilizing newspaper reports of labor meetings to a greater extent than heretofore. As the constant dropping of water will wear away a stone, so will the constant mention of union label affairs in the newspaper set merchants to thinking of handling goods that the people want.

It is easy to conceive an agitation can be strong enough—that is, with sincerity and persistence behind it—on the part of all the members—so that mere mention in the morning papers that such a union had endorsed union label hats and had appointed a committee to see what proportion of nonunion hats was sold in the town would be equivalent to serving notice on the retail hatters to stop handling nonunion hats and to handle union label hats exclusively. The same would apply to all other commodities, and after a time that portion of the public friendly to us would take such notice as a friendly tip for their co-operation in our behalf and retailers in all lines would consider that their business safety depended on having in stock the union label goods demanded by union members and by friends of unions among the general public.

This word picture is not overdrawn at all, but it may exaggerate the present loyalty of many union members to their own cause—to themselves. If this is true it is our greatest hindrance to obtaining the assistance of the general public. Nothing can disgust a would-be ally any quicker than the disloyalty of our own individual members. If a man who has taken upon himself the obligation of membership in a trade union will not be true to himself he cannot expect a nonmember to support him.

Mere talk about getting others to help, mere resolutions of good intentions and the appointment of numberless committees do not count for a single thing unless the members do their own duty, and do it well. We can interest the general public by advertising and by agitation, but it is only when we demonstrate our sincerity by our own example that we command their respect and qualify ourselves to receive their support. As Josh Billings said, "Them as has, gets." As we grow stronger in our own strength and in the consistent and persistent performance of our own duty the friendly aid from sympathizers that we need less will come to us in ever increasing measure.

We shall succeed in the proportion that we are worthy to succeed.—Shoe Workers' Journal.

Opportunity.

They do me harm who say I come no more.

When once I knock and fail to find you.

For every day I stand outside your door.

And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Weep not for golden acres on the wave.

Each night I burn the records of the day.

At sunrise every soul is born again.

To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb.

My judgments seal the dead past with its dead.

But never mind a movement yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep.

I lend my arm to all who say, "I can."

No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep.

But he might rise and be again a man.

MIXING CONCRETE.

Care Must Be Taken to Use Only Clear Sand and Gravel.

Concrete, a manufactured stone, is made by mixing together portland cement, sand and stone or gravel, writes J. P. Peck in the Chicago Tribune. Various proportions of each are used, depending upon the use to which the concrete is put. About half an hour after mixing the mass begins to stiffen until, in from half a day or a day, it becomes so hard that it cannot be dented with the hand. By a month it is hard as stone—indeed, harder than most stones.

There are a few precautions that must be observed in mixing concrete, precautions whose neglect may mean the loss of an entire piece of work, to say nothing of the time and labor involved.

Keep the cement in a dry place. Do not use fine sand.

If a large quantity of fine sand is handy obtain a coarse sand and mix the two together in equal parts. This mixture is as good as coarse sand alone.

The sand should be clean. The presence of dirt is easily ascertained by filling a fruit jar with sand to a depth of four inches and adding water until it is within an inch of the top. After the jar has been well shaken the contents should be allowed to settle for a couple of hours. The sand will sink to the bottom, but the mud will form a distinct layer on top of the sand.

Great care should be used in selecting the "coarse aggregate" (stone or gravel). The pebbles should be closely inspected to see that there is no clay on their surface. A layer of clay prevents the "binding" of the cement.

Water for concrete should be clean and free from strong acids or alkalis.

That mixture in which all spaces (called "voids") between the stone or gravel are filled with cement is the ideal mixture. This mixture is rarely attained, as the voids in each load of gravel or sand vary slightly, and in order to be absolutely safe it is well to use a little more cement than will just fill the voids.

HANDY LAWN SWEEPER.

Cutters on Old Mower Replaced by Revolving Brushes.

A correspondent of Popular Mechanics tells how an old lawn mower was easily converted into a lawn sweeper that served to pick up leaves and cut grass in a satisfactory manner.

The sweeper was quickly constructed with little expense by removing the revolving blades and substituting a brush. The center part for holding the bristles of the brush consisted of two pieces of wood cut to the length of the old blades and then grooved to fit over the mower axle. They were fastened together on the axle with glue and nails, after which a hole was drilled through the wood and axle and a pin driven in to prevent the finished brush from turning on the metal axle.

The tufts of bristles were taken from a couple of old brushes, three-sixteenths inch holes, nine-sixteenths inch deep, were bored into the four sides of the wood axle three-fourths inch apart and the tufts well glued and inserted in them, then further secured with wood pegs or wedges. The ends of the bristles should just clear the knife on the mower when they are revolving. In running this machine over the lawn the brush will throw the leaves into the apron at the rear.

Cloth Pinions For Gears.

In place of rawhide or paper for noiseless, shock absorbing gearing, cloth or cotton fiber pinions are now being used with great satisfaction. The cloth is piled up between steel shrouds, subjected to a hydraulic pressure of several tons per square inch and held in compression by threaded studs passing through both shrouds and filler. The teeth are then cut. The pinion is as strong as cast iron. The teeth are elastic enough to come to a good bearing across the full width of the face. They are not affected by atmospheric changes and are not damaged by contact with oil. In fact, they are soaked in oil to exclude moisture and furnish constant lubrication. Such gears have been designed for transmitting from one-sixth to 150 horsepower.

Railroad Cars For Invalids.

The German railroad system provides a specially designed car for invalids and cripples who can afford to use it. Every possible convenience for the sick is contained in the car, and a compartment, opening on the level of the station platform with a double door, so that a stretcher can be carried in without difficulty, is set apart for the invalid and attendants. The other section of the car contains a kitchen and a handsomely upholstered compartment for members of the family and accompanying friends.

Revising the Geographies.

Recent explorations around the arctic and antarctic poles make necessary a revision of all geographies. These say that water covers two-thirds of the earth's surface, land being only one-third. The latest figures are: Land, three-sevenths; water, four-sevenths.

A Theory

By GRACE OGLESBY

This is an age of reform or at least new formations, and such an age is always attended by a certain amount of hysteria. When people leave a beaten track to strike out into new paths they are liable to bewilderment, and so when they find or believe they have found that they have been influenced by false ideas in seizing new ones they are prone to jump from the frying pan into the fire. More than this, they are liable to jump from terra firma into water altogether too deep for them.

One of the new departures of the present day is a dissatisfaction with marriage as we in America have known it. Kent Blakeman's father and mother had lived together comfortably, bringing up half a dozen children. Kent at twenty-five discovered that they had taken a great risk in binding themselves so closely together that there was no easy way for them to break the chain. In their case fortunately they had not wished to break it. But, as for him, he did not intend thus to tie himself up. He believed in experimental marriage. If he married he would reserve the right to leave his wife as soon as he ceased to love her, and she should have the same privilege with regard to him.

Miss Estelle Woodruff, being about the same age as Blakeman, also grew up in the same atmosphere of hysterical reform. She heard persons talking about the frequency of divorce, marriage being a failure and kindred subjects, and her mind was very susceptible to absorb new theories. Blakeman found few women to sympathize with him in his notions about marriage—most reforms begin with a paucity of numbers—and when he met Miss Woodruff and made an easy convert of her he was much pleased with her—that is, he was much pleased with himself for having struck into a new path—and considered the girl above the ordinary in that she had appreciated his ideas.

There is an infinite variety of mental structure among human beings. Blakeman, who married Miss Woodruff, was of a different brain. He kept on developing in his anti-marriage theories, while she, with the coming of children, ceased to take an interest in them and at last turned against them.

Perhaps it was the discovery that he had been mistaken in his wife's mental caliber that started him in his idea that they were not fitted for each other. Their union had lost its romance and was becoming humdrum. It seemed to him that the connubial kiss morning and night had lost its zest. He had asserted when a bachelor that the honeymoon should last always and that when it had completely waned it was time for the couple to separate and each find a new mate.

Time came when Blakeman concluded to "be true to himself," as he put it, and claim the privilege he had reserved for himself when he married. He made several attempts to get his courage up to a point where he could tell his wife that she was not his affinity and that he proposed to free himself from her and make another trial to find a real and lasting mate. At last he succeeded.

Between a passing influence in youth and a woman who had been made over, so to speak, by the possession of two little children—a boy and a girl—there was an enormous difference. She was not only surprised by her husband's announcement; she was thunderstruck. But if she had not developed she had insensibly come into a lot of horse sense. To attempt to argue her husband out of his nonsense she knew would be futile. To oppose him would be equally so. Moreover, she remembered that at the time of her marriage she had coincided with his views. It was he who had been consistent, she who had changed. It had been mutually agreed that when either wished for freedom it should be granted.

She held to her agreement, though she recognized the outcome as a great misfortune. But she was a plucky as well as a proud woman and gave no sign of what a blow she suffered. The prenuptial agreement gave the children—if any came—to the mother, and this was, of course, a godsend to her. She wondered as she looked back when the provision was made that she had very nearly assented to a conditional proposition to divide the children between husband and wife.

When all preliminary arrangements had been made Mrs. Blakeman and her children—the little ones being ignorant of the separation of their parents—took a train for the mother's birthplace, where they expected to live. Blakeman saw them off and as the train was starting kissed them all and left the car.

He stood on the platform, looking after them as they rolled out of the station, and all of a sudden a great light broke in upon his brain, and he said to himself:

"What an addle pated ninny I have made of myself!"

Going to the ticket office, he bought a ticket for the next train to follow them, and the same night, when the mother was ruefully hearing the children say their prayers, the father swooped down on them like a cyclone and took them all in one embrace.

Has Blakeman given up theory? Never! His theory now is that the family is all there is in the world worth living for, and hereafter he proposes to live for his family only. Since his theory is sound all are happy.

AN INVITING NEIGHBORHOOD.

of the city, may be found living in the most unhealthy sections of the town. Thus unconsciously the health and joy of living of many may be daily and unnecessarily sacrificed to presumed commercial needs.

Little thought has been given to the creation of pleasant healthy residence neighborhoods and the safeguarding of these neighborhoods by the community or the city itself. The factory, the railroad, the business house, have first call on locations most desirable for their particular uses.

The remarkable fact is that nearly every one has come to feel that the successive rise and decline of residence neighborhoods in our cities are unavoidable and that even the very location of residence sections is secondary to every other interest of the city.

In the lack of proper control of the laying out of residence sections, home owners sustain annually a loss of millions of dollars through the decline and shifting of residence neighborhoods. Today the home owner is generally helpless to prevent the erection of an undertaking establishment of a laundry at his side or the erection of a tall warehouse, cutting off all air and sunshine from his family and children.

Rigid municipal control should be employed in the exclusion of undesirable commercial uses of land within the territory set aside for residence purposes. We should not leave the surrounding of our homes to the selfish private interests of the real estate speculator. We should not hazard the environment and surroundings of our children to the mercenary interest of the shifting ownerships of surrounding tracts of land. The fronting of residences and placing of outbuildings should be so regulated as not to injure surrounding homes nor mar the appearance of a neighborhood.

Safeguards of this sort should not be confined to the residential sections of the well to do. Applied to neighborhoods of workmen's cottages, they will prove just as great a benefit to the community and its health and happiness.

The function of the municipality is constantly being applied to new fields. At first it was broadened under the police power of the city. Its successful advance, often against bitter opposition, foretells the larger use of the right of eminent domain, by which the municipality for the public good may extend much further its control over the creation development and maintenance of residence property for the greatest good to the greatest number.

CHAPTER VI.

Robbery-Under-Arms.

Kate's Narrative.

We have started a visitor's book. It opens with press cuttings of interest. Salvator turned out to be a cur, his mission despicable, and yet no woman born can ever be without some little tenderness for one whose love misleads him. And I who sought to read a lesson to poor Jesse, learned one for myself. I am no longer free, but fettered, and proud of the chains, Love's chains, worth more to me than that lost world.

One morning, it must have been the twenty-sixth, I think, we had a caller, destined, I fear to entry in our visitor's book. Jesse had ridden off to see how his ponies thrive on the new grass. Mrs. O'Flynn was reading up after breakfast, and finding myself in the way, I took my water colors down to Apex Rock, to see if one sketch would hold winter, spring, summer, as viewed from the center of wonderland.

Now our house being in full view from the apex, and sound traveling magically in this clear atmosphere, I heard voices. Mrs. O'Flynn had a visitor, and I was in such a jealous hurry to share the gossip, that my sketch went over the cliff as I rose to run. A rather handsome man, in the splendid cowboy dress, stood by a chestnut gelding, such a horse aristocrat that I made sure he must sport a coat of arms. Moreover, in a gingerly and reluctant way, as though under orders, he was kissing Mrs. O'Flynn. She beamed, bless her silly old heart!

Mrs. O'Flynn looks on her truthfulness as a quality too precious for every-day use, and so carefully has it been preserved that in her fifty-fourth year it shows no sign of wear. Hence, on reaching the house I was not surprised to find that her visitor was a total stranger.

Judge by signs—chivalry, reticence, courtesy—Mrs. O'Flynn's guest was not a cowboy. His florid manners, exaggerated politeness, and imitation of our middle-class English speech stamped him as a bounder, but not of the British breed. Later, in moments of excitement, he spoke New York, with a twang of music-hall.

Even in so lonely a place it is curious to remember that such a person should appeal to me. Still in his common way the man had beauty, carried his clothes well, moved with grace. So much the artist in me saw and liked, but I think no woman could have seen those tragic eyes without being influenced.

"Ah! Mrs. Smith, I believe?" He stood uncovered. "May I venture to ask if your husband is at home? I think I had the pleasure of knowing him years ago down in Texas."

"He'll be back by noon." "Thank you, madam. Fact is, we were very much surprised to see your chimney smoke. We thought this exquisite place was quite unoccupied. Indeed!"

"Who's 'we'?" "Oh, we're the outfit riding for General Schmidt. We've come in search of the spring feed. We were informed views with Professor Bohns, the famous archaeologist, who came to examine the paleolithic deposits at South Cave. Next are papers relating to a summons for assault, brought by the late Mr. Trevor against J. Smith. But the gem of our collection is a letter of lengthy explanation from an eminent Italian cur, who spent a whole month at the ranch last winter. Nobody is more hospitable, or more hungry for popularity than my dear man, but I think that special prayers should be offered for his visitors. He has a motto now:—'Love me: love my bear, not my missus.'"

My jealous hero has told the story of an old admirer, once my fellow-student, who brought me a dumpy piano for which I so starved, told me the news, talked shop, and would make me a prima donna—my life's ambition. The trap was well baited. Lonely, and terrified by the dread majesty of winter, I craved for the lights, for the crowds, for my home, for my people, for my art. And there are little things besides which mean so much that Ponder's place was unoccupied, open to all. Am I mistaken in supposing that this is Ponder's place?" "It is."

"Er—may I venture to ask if your husband holds squatter's rights, or has the homestead and pre-emption?" "You may ask my husband."

"Thank you, madam. Our foreman instructed me to say that if the place proved to be occupied, I was to ask terms for pasturage. We've only two hundred head."

"Mr. Smith will consider the matter."

"We're camped in a little cave at the south end of the bench, deuced comfortable."

"Of course I know I'm a fool, and expect to be treated as such. But this man claimed to have camped at the South Cave without passing this house, which was impossible.

"Camped at South Cave?" said I. "In that event I need not detain you. Mr. Smith no doubt will call on you after dinner. Good morning, sir."

But this was not to his mind, and I gathered vaguely that my husband was not really wanted at the Bay Y camp. I even suspected that this visitor would rather deal with me than see my husband. It required more than a hint to secure his departure.

Jesse returned at noon. He received the story of our caller with the noises of one displeased. "That visitor, Kate," he summed up, "would make a first-class stranger. Knew me, you say, in Texas?"

Hearing from her kitchen Mrs. O'Flynn's sharp grunt of dissent, I closed the door.

"You've left the key-hole open," said Jesse, rising from the table, "come for a walk."

"Now, Kate, dear," Jesse sat down beside me on the Apex Rock, "this morn you got your first lesson in robbers. How would you like a visit to old Cap Taylor at Hundred Mile?"

My voice may have quivered just a little. "Danger?" I asked.

"I dunno as there's actual danger, but if I jest knowed you was safe, I'd be free to act prompt."

"Tell me everything, Jesse."

She Swings the Widow Through the Window.

"Up at the north end of the bench, there's maybe two hundred head of strange cattle. One pedigree short-horn bull is worth all of twenty-five hundred dollars, and there's a Hereford stud I'd take off my hat to anywhere. There's Aberdeens or Angus—I get them poll breeds mixed—and a bunch of Jerseys grazing apart, purty as deer. Anyway, that herd's worth maybe two hundred thousand dollars, every hoof of 'em stolen, and if you raked all them millionaire ranches in California I doubt you'd get that value."

"No stock owner needs that amount of stud cattle. We don't raise such in the north, so they've been drifted in here from the States. They're gaunt with famine and driving, and it beats me to think how many more's been left dead crossing the Black Pine country. The Bar Y brands has been faked. The parties herding 'em waits till I'm away, and tries to make a deal with you for pasturage. The gent with the sad eyes is sent dressed up to fool a woman."

"Now, Kate," his great strong arm closed round me like a vise. "The hull country knows you're clear grit, so there's no shame in leaving. For my sake, dear—"

"Do you think I'd leave you in danger?"

He sighed. "I knew it. I can't help it, and Kate, it's the truth, I'd rather see you dead than scared. There's Madam Grizzly, and Senora Cougar, there's Lady Elk, and even Mrs. Polecat, brave as lions. I'd hate to have my mate the only one to run like a scalded cat."

"The program, Jesse?" "Do you remember, Kate, how we lost five dollars finding out that Dale and me is signers?"

"And Captain Taylor gave us the signals to raise the district: one fire for feasts, two for help, three for war!"

"That's it, little woman. By dusk I'll be on top of the cliffs, and make my fires back from the rim-rock, where them robbers won't see the glare."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

RETIRED GEORGIA PLANTER'S ADVICE TO KIDNEY SUFFERERS

Regarding the wonderful curative merits of your Swamp-Root, I cannot say too much. After suffering severely for three years or more with severe pains caused by weak kidneys, I was finally induced to try Swamp-Root through a testimonial I read in one of the newspapers. I was in such a condition that I was obliged to arise from my bed six or eight times every night. I purchased a fifty-cent bottle and before it was used I felt so much relief that I purchased a one-dollar bottle and by the time this was taken the old pains had left my back and I could sleep the whole night through. I am a retired planter, 70 years of age, and owing to Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, I am in the best of health and feel like a boy. I am always glad to recommend Swamp-Root to those who are in need of it.

Sincerely yours,
C. E. USSERY,
Bowersville, Ga.

Personally appeared before me, this 8th of September, 1909, C. E. USSERY, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Cutting Out the Liver.

Herbert Corey, the champion long distance anecdote teller of the world, says that where he came from in Ohio there was a stranded, hungry race track gambler who struck town and found the friend of his boyhood running a short order restaurant, says the Saturday Evening Post. The restaurant man made his old comrade welcome and at first fed him copiously, but after a week or so grew weary of so unprofitable a guest and decided to give the wayfarer a gentle hint.

So he instructed the waiters to give him only liver to eat, liver being the cheapest thing on the bill of fare. The race track man had liver for breakfast, dinner and supper—just liver and nothing but liver. He lived on liver nine days. Then on the morning of the tenth he found a twenty dollar bill on the street.

He made hotfoot for the most pretentious cafe in the place. The menu was printed in French. He beckoned the waiter to him.

"Have you got liver here?" he asked. "This is liver," said the waiter, pointing to a line on the card.

The gambler laid a thumb over it firmly.

"Now, then," he said, "bring me $10 worth each way from liver!"

Guaranteed Eczema Remedy

The constant itching, burning, redness, rash and disagreeable effects of eczema, tetter, salt rheum, itch, piles and irritating skin eruptions can be readily cured and the skin made clear and smooth with Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. Mr. J. C. Eveland, of Bath, Ill., says: "I had eczema twenty-five years and had tried everything. All failed. When I found Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment, I found a cure." This ointment is the formula of a physician and has been in use for years—not an experiment. That is why we can guarantee it. All druggists, or by mail, Price 50c. He Corrected Clay.

Hanna Rion, author of "Let's Make a Flower Garden," tells the following story which she got from her father, who was a protégé of John C. Calhoun: Mr. Clay was visiting Fort Hill, the Calhoun home, and during a breakfast he and Mr. Calhoun as usual began a heated argument on one of the thousand points which they did not agree upon. Mr. Clay became so engrossed he paid but small attention to the meal, and when the negro butler passed the biscuits Clay harpooned one with his fork.

The old butler was startled, but he silently disappeared into the kitchen to reappear with a plate of steaming waffles. Mr. Clay, more excited over his argument than ever, snatched a waffle with his fingers. This was too much. The old negro squared himself and, interrupting an argument which might have changed history, said: "No, boss, dat won't do at all. De fingers for de biscuits and de fork for de waffles."

Cream of Carrot Soup.
Chicken Pie.
Sugared Sweet Potatoes.
Orange and Apple Salad.
Caramel Custard.
Coffee.

APPLES form the basis of the best fruit salads. By combining them with other fruits an endless variety of these dishes may be devised.

Sweet Apple Salad.—Take six apples, pare, core and slice them. Put a layer in a glass dish, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon or nutmeg. Add layers of apples and seasoning alternately. Pour over a little sweet fruit juice. Keep quite cold at least an hour before serving.

Salad in Apple Cases.—Take six large red apples, cut thin slices from the stem end so they will set flat, then cut off the blossom end and scoop out the inside. Saw tooth the edge. Chop the apple and mix with cream dressing. Fill the apple into the cups, sprinkle chopped English walnuts over tops and serve in a bed of lettuce leaves.

Combined With Nuts.—Take four large tart apples and chop fine with one cupful of walnuts. Whip one cupful of sweet cream, add one-quarter cupful of sugar and pour over apples and nuts. Stand in refrigerator until cold. Serve at once.

Apple and Hickory Nut Salad.—Take rich, juicy apples and cut into dice. Use equal parts of the apple and of celery, also diced. Add a generous portion of hickory nut meats, and just before serving toss with cooked mayonnaise dressing whipped with equal parts of cream to a stiff froth. This addition of cream to the dressing makes it deliciously mild and light.

With Oranges and Cherries.—Orange and Apple Salad.—Take a tart apple, an orange, one large or two small bananas, one-half cupful of English walnuts, one-half cupful of cherry sauce, three slices of canned pineapple and one cupful of sugar. First peel apple, orange and bananas, cut them in small dices, then add nuts, cherries, pineapples and some of the juice from pineapple and last of all add sugar.

A Refined Looking Domestic.

One day Miss Helen Taft was met by two tourists as she left the White House grounds. With that charming and inexpressible gift for gallantry which tourists develop, they stopped her and, not knowing that she was the president's daughter, asked her a lot of questions about the White House. Miss Taft submitted and pointed out all the various interesting things about the grounds, where the apartments of the president and his family were situated and other intimate details.

"You seem to know a lot about it, my dear," said one of the women. "Oh," replied Miss Taft laughingly, "you see I am one of the assistants to the chief cook."

As she walked away she heard one of the tourists declare: "Quite refined looking for a domestic."—Popular Magazine.

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Doan's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsements should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Mrs. D. B. Henderson, 523 Indianapolis Avenue, Seymour, Ind., says: "I gladly confirm the public statement I gave two years ago in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I always recommend this remedy when I have the opportunity as the cure it made has been permanent. There was lameness in the small of my back and my kidneys caused me a great deal of annoyance. Obstinate Acne Quickly Yields Fine Remedy that Clears Skin of Pimples on Cheeks, Temples, Sides of Nose and Chin.

Acne attacks the glandular structure of the skin, more particularly those tiny glands that secrete fat.

And it is here that S. S. S., the famous blood purifier is most active in its influence.

There is one ingredient in S. S. S., the purpose of which it is to stimulate the cells in the tissues that they select from the blood the nutriment that makes new skin and thus eliminates all irritants, acids and parasites that inflame the glands. There is a natural tendency of the fine network of blood vessels in the skin to throw off impurities, but where a persistent inflammation process has invaded the skin, the natural repair work of the blood is interfered with. It requires the stimulating activity of S. S. S. to overcome such morbid conditions. If you have been troubled with acne, do not despair of a cure.

You can get S. S. S. in any drug store, but insist upon having it. Take no chance with a substitute. And if your blood condition is such that you would like to consult a specialist freely, address the Medical Dept., The Swift Specific Company, 181 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Your Ideals.
Have we not all amid life's petty strife Some pure ideal of noble life That once seemed possible? Did we not hear The flutter of its wings and feel it near And just within our reach? It was, and yet We lost it in this daily jar and fret And now live idle in a vague regret. But still our place is kept, and it will wait, Ready for us to fill it, soon or late. No star is ever lost we once have seen. We always may be what we might have been.

Most Children Have Worms

Many mothers think their children are suffering from indigestion, headache, nervousness, weakness, costiveness, when they are victims of that most common of all children's ailments—worms. Peevish, ill-tempered, fretful children, who toss and grind their teeth, with bad breath and colicky pains, have all the symptoms of having worms, and should be given Kikapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, which expels worms, regulates the bowels, tones up the system, and makes children well and happy. Kikapoo Worm Killer is guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail, Price 25c. Kikapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. Advertisement.

Two bicycles, upon which W. F. Kelley, B. & O. Southwestern baggage master, and Miss Mary Sciarra were mounted, collided yesterday afternoon on Second street near the Chestnut street crossing, but neither of the riders was hurt. Mr. Kelley was taking some mail to the post office and as he neared the corner he turned to speak to a friend and did not notice the girl who was a short distance away. Miss Sciarra, who is learning to ride was unable to turn the wheel to avoid the collision. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Sciarra of Columbus, and formerly lived here. She is visiting Fred Sciarra and family for several days.

THE TWO BARONS.

They Had a Trying Time In the Royal Court of Bulgaria.

Till he left the royal court of Bulgaria in disgrace some time ago old Baron Eckdorfstein, the prince's over-governor, gave the royal children more fun than anybody. He was a rigid, fidgety old Prussian, always complaining. In the early part of last year, under the plea that his neighbor, Baron Bernsdorff, snored so loud that he could not sleep, he changed his rooms from the wing to the main body of the palace, much to the disgust of the prince, who determined to get rid of him.

They soon hit on a plan. His new quarters were so far from the telephone that he had to pass many corridors and cross a large hall to get to it. One morning he got so urgent a call that he hastened out in his pajamas. On his way back he found the way stopped. Each corridor and stairway held a sentry, who solemnly declared his royal highness the crown prince had given orders that nobody was to pass.

The prince himself guarded two exits, and the poor old baron spent an awful quarter of an hour rushing wildly about the large hall and dodging behind pillars when a minister passed through on his way to the king. The suit, hearing roars of laughter, came to look and laugh.

The joke worked so well that the baron petitioned the king to go back to his old quarters that very day. But he grew crustier and crustier. The crisis was reached when, furious that a reception was going on in the palace when he wanted to sleep, he rose, locked all the dressing room doors and took the keys to his room. Some of the household gave him a good shaking. The king heard of it and sent him off on unlimited leave.

In the meantime Baron Bernsdorff, whom Eckdorfstein had got in disgrace by the reports of his outrageous snoring, had had no summons to go to the king for weeks and weeks and was getting quite uneasy, as the man who does not enjoy royal conversation frequently soon loses prestige at court. But at last a gendarme came and told him he was not to stir from his rooms that day, as the king might want him.

Bernsdorff waited and waited. At last, three weeks later, somebody mentioned his name before the king, who exclaimed, "Good heaven, I told him to wait in for me three weeks ago!" He sent and found the poor old Prussian still waiting. Through three weeks of glorious Balkan spring weather he had not dared leave his rooms.—Harper's.

Cheerfulness.
We ought to be as cheerful as we can if only because to be happy ourselves is a most effectual contribution to the happiness of others.—Lord Avebury.

Trapping a Dean.
Mr. Frederic Harrison tells the following story of Dr. Gaisford, once dean of Christ Church college, Oxford, a typical "head" of the old school, whose autocratic disposition did not escape the notice of his pupils. A student of the house, in spite of formal orders of the tutors that no undergraduate should have leave to attend the Derby, succeeded in getting it by telling Dr. Gaisford that his tutor had declared that not even the dean himself could break the college rule. "What?" said the dean. "They tell you I cannot give leave? I give you leave, sir—and report this order to your tutor!"

Didn't Want the Landscape.
Thomas J. Pence, who pulled off a prize piece of work in managing President Wilson's campaign publicity work dropped into a restaurant in Washington one evening and ordered a water cress sandwich.

The waiter set it before him, the slices of bread being cut very thick and the supply of watercress enormous.

GAZED ON THE SANDWICH IN SADNESS.
Pence gazed on the sandwich in sadness and silence for at least five minutes.

"Waiter," he said at last in a suave tone, "when I order a watercress sandwich it doesn't necessarily mean that I wish a meadow concealed between two loaves of bread."—Washington Star.

It Wasn't Like Sargent After All.
Once when John S. Sargent, the famous painter, was at a banquet a young lady whom he knew very well said to him, "Oh, Mr. Sargent, I saw your latest painting and kissed it because it was so much like you."
"And did it kiss you in return?"
"Why, no."
"Then," said Mr. Sargent, "it was not like me."
